Getting More Information

This section lists national organizations and government agencies, as well as selected articles and reports, that we hope will be useful as you work to improve access to mental health screenings and assessments for children. The resource kit builds upon the very important work done by many of the organizations listed below. We cite their valuable work throughout the resource kit.

National Organizations

American Academy of Pediatrics (AAP)

141 Northwest Point Boulevard
Elk Grove Village, IL 60007-1098
847-434-4000
847-434-8000 (FAX)

or

Department of Federal Affairs
601 13th Street, NW
Suite 400 North
Washington, DC 20005

202-393-6137 (FAX)
www.aap.org

For specific e-mail inquiries, see the directory at <http://www.aap.org/visit/contact.htm>

Addresses needs of children and their families through advocacy, education, and research to improve the systems through which its members deliver pediatric care. AAP also publishes “Recommendations for Preventive Health Care,” which specifies a schedule for regular screenings and developmental assessments. AAP has a number of departments, divisions, and programs to address specific issues. Their Web site offers general information for parents of children from birth through age 21 and also for clinicians.

American Academy of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry (AACAP)

3615 Wisconsin Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20016-3007
202-966-7300
202-966-2891 (FAX)
www.aacap.org

Addresses concerns about health care and socio-economic issues affecting children to improve and expand psychiatric services for them. AACAP offers public information, in both English and Spanish, for families and physicians on many mental health topics on its Web site, and provides recognized professionals as spokespersons. Contact the AACAP Executive Office for organizations or the Department of Government Affairs for legislative or related issues. AACAP provides practice parameters for children of all ages. AACAP also is working with the Child Welfare League of America on a special initiative to improve the mental health and substance abuse services provided to children in foster care.

Promotes the rights of people with mental disabilities. The Center produces many publications that analyze and interpret federal laws and policies affecting access to services for adults and children with mental disabilities. In 2000-2001, it conducted a study of state Medicaid policies on mental health and substance abuse screening of children and adolescents. Results of the study are reported in "Behavioral Health Screening Policies in Medicaid Programs Nationwide," R.M. Semansky, C. Koyanagi, and R. Vandivort-Warren, Psychiatric Services, May 2003, 54:5, 736-739. See also Avoiding Cruel Choices, the Bazelon Center's guide for policymakers and family organizations on Medicaid's role in preventing custody relinquishment. For additional information on this topic, see Staying Together: Preventing Custody Relinquishment for Children's Access to Mental Health Services (1999), a publication released jointly with the Federation of Families for Children's Mental Health.

About The Children's Defense Fund

The mission of the Children's Defense Fund is to Leave No Child Behind[®] and to ensure every child a Healthy Start, a Head Start, a Fair Start, a Safe Start, and a Moral Start in life and successful passage to adulthood with the help of caring families and communities.

CDF provides a strong, effective voice for all the children of America who cannot vote, lobby, or speak for themselves. We pay particular attention to the needs of poor and minority children and those with disabilities. CDF educates the nation about the needs of children and encourages preventive investments before they get sick, into trouble, drop out of school, or suffer family breakdown.

CDF began in 1973 and is a private, nonprofit organization supported by foundation and corporate grants and individual donations. We have never taken government funds.
